The TIR System is a global transit system facilitating trade and international transport of goods worldwide, while ensuring the efficiency and security of customs procedures.

To ensure smooth operation of the TIR System, the World Customs Organization (WCO) and the International Road transport Union (IRU) have jointly developed a TIR distance learning package, allowing users to gain a comprehensive knowledge of the principles, procedures and main actors involved in the TIR System. The learners will enhance their professional expertise allowing them to perform their tasks to the highest standards.

Who should use this Programme?

It was designed for anyone interested in knowing how the TIR System works.

Access to the Programme is free of charge for:

- ✓ Customs authorities through the WCO Learning portal: click.wcoomd.org
- ✓ IRU member Associations through the IRU website: www.iru.org/tir

Knowledge Evaluation

Each module of the Programme includes a lesson followed by a quiz to test the learner's understanding and knowledge, see the correct answers and explanations and therefore evaluate and strengthen the user's expertise.

Help Utilities

The programme also offers a resource library and a glossary including all key documents and terms to better understand the various aspects of the TIR System.

What does the Programme include?

The distance learning programme consists of 14 regularly updated easy-to-use interactive modules, which can be followed by the participants at their own pace in Arabic, English, French, Russian and Spanish languages.

The TIR Distance learning package covers in details the following elements:

- ✓ The TIR System
