

Manage risks in your transport supply chain

Limit supply chain risk with IRU RoadMasters

With technology advancing and supply chains becoming more complex, the driver's job is changing. In addition to driving, drivers must excel at problem solving, communication and decision making.

IRU RoadMasters driver assessment and certification helps you ensure that the drivers working in your supply chain comply with the highest professional standards and follow best practices. It screens your transport supply chain to limit risk exposure and streamline your operations.

We believe that:

- the drivers transporting your goods are the shop window of your business
- operating an agile supply chain requires reliable carriers with skilled drivers
- no matter if you have your own fleet or work with transport subcontractors, professionalism and safety are crucial

Control access to your premises

A certificate and driver card are presented to all drivers who successfully pass. You can verify certificate validity anytime, anywhere, even at the entry to your premises.

Analytics for risk management

A results analytics report is automatically generated, enabling you to explore and compare the competence levels of subcontractors and monitor results.

Implementation of IRU RoadMasters

- Easily implemented even in large operations with a wide geographical spread
- Fully online
- Can be combined with a practical assessment delivered by an authorised partner or a learning programme to address skill gaps
- Can include assessment modules aligned with your company procedures and equipment

RoadMasters driver skills profile

Jointly developed with industry partners

IRU RoadMasters was developed together with industry partners to ensure its relevance and effectiveness.

Why use assessment?

- Risk management. Apply international standards to your supply chain to limit risk exposure
